

Brian Trommeter, DDS MSD

Dr. Trommeter was raised in the Park Hill neighborhood of northeast Denver. He is the youngest of three children and grew up competing in multiple sports including soccer and basketball. Dr. Trommeter's interest in dentistry began early when he had his experience with braces. His front teeth were "a little out there" and not very straight. While his friends typically had braces during grade school, Dr. Trommeter had to wait until high school to get his braces. He says it was worth the wait because he gained an increase in self-esteem and a confident smile. The experience was enough to make Dr. Trommeter consider being an orthodontist as his career choice.

After graduating from Regis Jesuit High School, he went on to attend Marquette University, in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Dr. Trommeter graduated summa cum laude from Marquette with a degree in Biomedical Sciences, a minor in Biology, and a new found appreciation for Colorado sunshine. He knew it was time to come home. Dr. Trommeter attended dental school locally at the University of Colorado School of Dental Medicine. During his third year of dental school, he married his high school sweetheart, Kelly. They started dating during their senior year of high school shortly after they both had their braces off! Coincidence? Dr. Trommeter was one of seven students in his class inducted into the exclusive National Dental Honor Society, OKU. Dr. Trommeter was the only member of his dental school class to specialize in orthodontics and accepted a position within the University of Colorado's Orthodontics and Dentofacial Orthopedics residency program in 2011.

Dr. Trommeter spends his free time caring about the Denver Broncos and Marquette Golden Eagles as if he's a member of the team. He also enjoys trying to beat his wife at golf (she's a former Colorado high school golf champion and division I athlete). His claim to fame is a hole in one the first time he ever played golf. His parents still live in his childhood home in Park Hill.

Dr. Trommeter is excited about the opportunity to put his many years of education to work and benefit the people of the community where he grew up.

The PERFECT TEETH™ network of dental offices is the largest provider of dental services throughout Colorado, New Mexico, and Arizona with 65+ offices and more than 100 dentists providing both general and specialty dental services.